endeavouring to break open the door, they went to the place of attack, had effected a breach, through which they entered. The others, more cautious, took cover, during which the officer saluted them with repeated discharges, by which one of them and the others terribly wounded, the quantities of blood which fell being their flight. After this the garrison remained for the rest of the day, they mounted their arms, and took a bye road; as soon as they they gave an account of the whole, search is making for the rest of the day. The above relation is a very instance of the special interposition to detect villainy and protect the

On Wednesday noon an American ship from Mr. Adams, the American house in Grosvenor square, to embark on board the picket, whether he is charged with the Plenipotentiary to Congress, or last, an innkeeper at Oxford in bed with his own daughter, in her husband, who is an Attorney at law. The husband having been informed, if possible, to convict him from many strong circumstances, if possible, to convict him. He having information (by a who lives next door to the husband) and her father were just then gone there; he accordingly took a person and went up to the room door he was in, when upon trying the door it to be locked, which he immediately jumped from the window, and he would murder the husband, he determined to secure him, escape by jumping out of a one pair down, and he was his own father, stated that under the manager of the horses stand. What adds to the terror is, that another daughter, then fifteen years of age, was delivered of a child, of which he suspected of being the father. Arriving exhibited against the father by saying he would be his death, and the care of the keeper of Oxford

SAH (Georgia) April 27. Under, on his way from Charleston, he was seized by two Negro men of the mail, which should have been on Wednesday evening the ADELPHIA, May 17. It is said from Spain, we hear of the cession of the Floridas is premature, but that there is reason to believe that something would take place between Spain, in exchange for the Gibraltar, which would be settled by a very favourable treaty. Should it take place, it is of a very alarming nature to our neighbours, both as neighbours, and as to the important branches of our commerce.

An express arrived in this country, and brought the following intelligence—That in the night of the 14th, the hostages from the nation, together with the in-attack on that garrison was apprehended. Under this idea, a reinforcement is gone down from Fort McIntosh, that the garrison is well supplied with provisions, and plenty of excellent water within the body of the work; that about 20 Indians were lately seen near Fort McIntosh, but their intentions could not be devised; and that several of their Chiefs have been invited to a talk with Sir John Johnston, at Niagara.

On Monday last two companies of the troops, raised for the defence of the posts on the western frontiers, under the command of that experienced officer Col. Harmer, marched from this city for Fort Pitt. They are well equipped, and make a very martial appearance, and will doubtless be considered as a seasonable reinforcement to the companies already on that station. Capt. Ferguson, of the train of artillery, and McCurdy, of the infantry, command the above companies. We learn that the company from New-Jersey, under Capt. Mercer, will also take up their march in a few days for the same quarter.

NEW-YORK, May 16. IN CONGRESS,

Monday, March 27, 1786.

THE secretary at war, to whom was referred his Letter of the 15th, containing extracts of two letters from Major John Palfgrave Wyllis, at Fort McIntosh, one dated 23d January, 1786, and the other the 12th of February, 1786, in the former of which Major Wyllis states, "that the frequent desertions at that post required some immediate remedy—that in his opinion capital punishments are absolutely necessary for that purpose—that he was so far convinced in its utility in the present instance, that he had ventured to approve of the sentence of a court martial, and sincerely wishes that the necessity of his situation may not render it his duty to put the sentence into execution before any orders can arrive from the war-office," and in the latter, "that 2 days after his last of the 23d of January, notwithstanding the proceeding of the court martial were published, and the prisoners were in irons, before their eyes, three men of Captain Strong's company deserted—that a party was sent after them—that after a long pursuit they were taken and brought back to the garrison—that he ordered them immediately to be put to death, which was done, and thinks this instance of severity may probably preclude the necessity of executing the deserters now in confinement, have reported.

That the dignity and justice of the United States, require, that a full investigation of all the circumstances attending the transaction, should be made immediately, in order that Congress may be informed thereon their ultimate determination respecting the same.

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report

Resolved, That a court of inquiry be any, in order to be presented to Congress.

Resolved, That the secretary at war direct, that the said John Palfgrave Wyllis be arrested, and remain in an arrest until the further order of Congress, and that he order another field-officer immediately to repair to Fort McIntosh, to take the command of the troops in that post.

Resolved, That the secretary at war be directed to order the two men, now in confinement under sentence of death at Fort McIntosh, to be released, their trial having been illegal.

It is, perhaps, worth while to remark, what an alteration has taken place of late, among the inferior class of people, in the terms of wager-laying. About five years ago it was—"I hold you a thousand dollars, a thing is so or so"—afterwards—"I will stake two half joes"—or—"I will venture two dollars" at present it is, (and that two with a very faint voice)—"I will lay you six pence, that times were never so hard since the settlement of the place," &c.—Heaven grant it may come no lower!

May 18. It is with the utmost regret that we acquaint the public with the death of the celebrated American, Mrs. Wright, occasioned by a fall returning from a visit to our Ambassador, Mr. Adams. America has lost in her a warm and sincere friend, as well as one of the first ornaments to the arts. Those brave fellows, who during the late war were fortunate enough to escape from the arms of tyranny, and take sanctuary under her roof, will join us in lamenting her loss; whilst her attachment to America, and her generous & indefatigable attention to the prisoners in distress, will render her regretted, and her memory revered by her country.

May 20. in the ship Juno, Capt. Jenkins, came passengers, Mr. Somers, of Dublin; Mr. Vaughan, of ditto, and Mr. Greene, of Rhode-Island.

Capt. Barnes, of the schooner Willing Maid, arrived in seven days from Wilmington, North-Carolina, informs us, that on the 24th ult. a fire broke out in a large warehouse on one of the wharves in that place, which, reaching the tobacco, pitch, tar and turpentine, on the several docks, made such rapid progress, that in about two hours one third of the town was consumed. Two mercantile houses there have suffered loss to the amount of 14,000l. It is supposed that the warehouse had been intentionally set on fire by some Negroes.

On Monday arrived at Philadelphia, from Madeira, after 50 days passage, the Madeira Packet, Capt. Haydon; who informs, that there were no Algerine cruizers at or near the Western Islands when he sailed.

On the 24th of April, in lat. 37, long. 60, Capt. Haydon spoke the schooner Benjamin, Capt. Carper, from the Cape of Good Hope, bound to Boston, out 53 days, all well.

And they have further promised in the above manner, if any person or persons shall offer to make any distinction as aforesaid, so as to create a depreciation in the said paper medium, that they will not purchase, or cause to be purchased from him or them, any produce or other article, until he or they shall offer to sell the same for promiscuous payments, either in the paper medium, or gold or silver without distinction." This agreement is signed by upwards of 130 merchants, traders, &c. among whom are most of the first rate people in business.

BOSTON, May 22.

We have authentick advice from London, of a very late date, that affairs there, as they respect America, bear a very unfavourable aspect, which is entirely owing to the delay of refusal of the States to vest Congress with the necessary powers of government, particularly for the regulation of Commerce. Our Ambassadors, it is feared, will ere long be treated with contempt. Some proposals, however, have been lately made respecting a treaty of commerce, which are said, in some of our latest accounts, to have been under the consideration of the British Cabinet: but whether any thing will be effected, time only can determine.

Thursday last was married at Cranston (by the Rev. Mr. Oliver) William Goddard, Esq. of Baltimore, Printer, to Miss Abigail Angell, eldest daughter of the late Brigadier-General Angell; a lady of great worth, her mental acquirements, joined to a most amiable disposition, being highly honourable to the sex and are pleasing prefaces of connubial felicity.

A Dublin paper of April 14 says, "the ship Enterprize, Capt. Benjamin Baker, belonging to Greenwich, in the State of Rhode-Island, bound to Dublin, and loaded with flaxseed, pot and pearl-ash, tobacco, oil, whalebone, staves, &c. &c. foundered at sea on the 26th of February last, in lat. 44:44, and long. 36:20. Two of the seamen lost their lives; but the Captain, Mr. Greene, one of the owners, and the rest of the officers and seamen, were taken off the wreck, after six days extreme suffering, by a brig bound from Charleston to Ham-burgh, from which they made their way to Waterford and Dublin, and have got relief from their wretchedness and wants by meeting several vessels from that part of America now in that port."

NORWICH, JUNE 1.

Last Tuesday the different companies of Militia within this City, assembled for military exercise, under the command and inspection of the field officers of the regiment; the regularity with which the troops went thro' the various evolutions and manœuvres proper on such an occasion, reflected the highest honor on the military abilities of the officers, and excited the just encomiums of a large number of spectators on the troops in general.—The good conduct exhibited on the occasion fully impressing all present, that the safety of every free country must ever depend principally on the establishment of a well regulated MILITIA.

The Act of the New-York Assembly, granting the 5 per cent. impost, is entitled "An act for giving and granting to the United States in Congress assembled, certain imposts and duties on foreign goods imported into that state, for the special purpose of paying the principal and interest of the debt contracted in the prosecution of the late war with Great-Britain." This act, however, is said to be "totally nugatory, as the duty is to be paid in paper money, of which the Legislature of that state have lately determined to emit two hundred thousand pounds. from town, received a letter from her master, in which she was to prepare for his reception on and to procure all his plate, &c. As the letter had no post, she entertained some suspicion, and went to consult her master's agent, on inspecting the letter, she was firmly convinced it was his handwriting, and advised her to make necessary preparations against his return. Still, however, her doubts remained, and she went to the master to receive his opinion, and the delivery of the plate. She was so fully persuaded that she was from her master that she sent the plate home, where she intended to get every thing ready for him. However, for a short time, she was in danger, she was taken to the family to suffer, to sleep in the house until her husband, which was expected the next day, but the butcher was unable to do so, but offered his dog, which was a much better defence than a man. The woman readily accepted the offer, the dog was locked in the room that contained the plate, and she was over without any alarm. In the morning, however, when she came to the door open, and the dog was a man with his bowels torn, and marks of violence, whom, she found to be the brother of the man, whom she had consulted before. The dog had received no wound, and she offered none to the woman, and she was from her frequenting the master. The family have in the mean time concealed this lamentable discovery, the wretched victim of their treachery, and some inquietude is even said to be on account of his not having written to his friends, that all of this melancholy occurrence is wholly extinguished.

By NICOLAS PIKE, A. M.

THIS work will be printed on good American paper, with a handsome type.

It is supposed it will contain between 4 and 500 pages, in large octavo.

It will be delivered to subscribers, neatly bound and lettered, at only One Spanish Milled Dollar and Two Thirds, (which is as low as any British publication of its size) with generous allowance to Bookellers, who take a number.

No money will be asked until the books are delivered—and (as the publication will depend on the encouragement given by the number of subscribers) it will, then, be expected.

It will be put to the Press as soon as it shall appear that a sufficient number are engaged to defray the mere expences of publication.

The publick may be assured, that both the work and execution will be wholly American.

* Subscriptions for the above will be received by the Author—at the Printing-Office in Newbury Port; by M. W. Vinal and Carter, School-masters, and Capt. John Stone, in WHETHER may have the perusal of this treatise on Arithmetick, may naturally conclude I might have spared myself the trouble of giving it this recommendation, as the work will speak more for itself than the most elaborate recommendation from my pen can speak for it: but as I have always been much delighted with the contemplation of mathematical subjects, and at the same time fully sensible of the utility of a work of this nature, was willing to render every assistance in my power in bringing it to publick view: and should the student read it with the same pleasure, with which I pursued the sheets before they went to the press, am perfectly satisfied will not fail of reaping that benefit from it which he may expect, or wish for, to satisfy his curiosity in a subject of this nature. The author, in treating on numbers, has done it with so much perspicuity, and singular address, that I am convinced the study thereof will become more a pleasure than a task.

The arrangement of the work, the concise and elegant demonstrations given to the several rules, evidently evince the superior abilities of the author; and the method by which he leads the Tyro into the first principles of numbers, is one which I have not met with in any book I have seen. Wingate, Hutton, Ward, &c., and many other authors, whose names might be adduced, if necessary, have claimed a considerable share of merit, but when brought into a comparative point of view with this treatise, they are inadequate and defective. This volume contains, besides what is useful and necessary in the common affairs of life, a great fund for amusement and entertainment. The Mechanick will find in it much more than he may have occasion for; the Lawyer, Merchant and Mathematician will find an ample field for the exercise of their genius; and I am well assured it may be read to great advantage by students of every class, from the lowest school to the University. More than this needs not be said by me, and to have said less would be keeping back a tribute justly due to the merit of this Work.

EENJAMIN WEST.

Providence, State of Rhode-Island, Sept. 23d, 1785.]

University in Cambridge, A. D. 1786.

HAVING, by the desire of Nicolas Pike, Esq. inspected the following volume in manuscript, we beg leave to acquaint the publick, that in our opinion it is a work well executed, and contains a complete system of Arithmetick. The rules are plain, and the demonstrations perspicuous and satisfactory; and we esteem it the best calculated, of any single piece we have met with, to lead youth, by natural and easy gradations, into a methodical and thorough acquaintance with the science of figures. Persons of all descriptions may find in it every thing, respecting numbers, necessary to their business; and not only so, but if they have a speculative turn and mathematical taste, may meet with much for their entertainment at a leisure hour.

We are happy to see so useful an American production, which, if it should meet with the encouragement it deserves, among the inhabitants of the United States, will save much money in the country, which would otherwise be sent to Europe, for publications of this kind.

We heartily recommend it to schools, and to the community at large, and wish that the industry and skill of the Author may be rewarded, for so beneficial a work, by meeting with the general approbation and encouragement of the publick.

Joseph Willard, D. D. President of the University.

FROM the known character of the gentlemen, who have recommended Mr. Pike's System of Arithmetick, there can be no room to doubt, that it is a valuable performance; and will be, if published, a very useful one. I therefore wish him success in its publication.

[NUMBER]

Messrs GREENS,

Therefore, it must be the invention of some one person, who styles himself ws, in hopes of adding to his importance; who proceeds to say, "that the House of Assembly had once so far complied with the requisition of Congress, as to vote a tax of five pence in the pound for paying the interest on the foreign debt," and either ignorantly or designedly omits saying, that it was for said interest and the payment of civil-list debt united; but says he, "that clause which made provision for paying our own creditors was rejected," by which his partiality appears in not allowing the creditors of the United States in Europe, and the civil list officers to be our own creditors; and in omitting to state the reasons which were given by the members on this matter; which I am warranted to say, were the weight of arrearages, of taxes now laying on the people, and the uncertainty of our proportion of the national debt; as some of the states have not complied with the advice of Congress, to amend the 8th article of Confederation, by substituting numbers, in lieu of the valuation of land, &c. and to tax the people already burthened, without knowing in what proportion they ought to be taxed, appeared by the arguments in the house to be impolitic and unjust.

which delineates the authority of the General Assembly, and the liberties of the people; and at the declaration of Independence, the assembly adopted it, and pledged their faith to the people, that on their part they would abide by the ancient form of civil government of this State, under the authority of the people; and as the choice of representatives is one of the most essential rights of the people, it is out of the power of the assembly to alter it.

This writer observes, that "We are happy that the legislature of this state, although it has been guilty of some omissions which we shall probably regret, has done no active mischief," while I am unhappy to find that he has done much active wrong, and has omitted all that he ought to have done.

And since the peace, safety and honour of the state depends much on the press, I submit to the impartial consideration of the Printers, who have published, those political paragraphs, whether they ought not also to publish these remarks.

And am, gentlemen, one of your constant Readers.

From the BALTIMORE ADVERTISER.

SUBSTANCE of Lord CARMARTHEN'S answer to the requisition of his Excellency JOHN ADAMS, Esq; &c. &c. on the 20th of last February, respecting the British posts held on the territories which were ceded by the treaty of peace, to the United States.—This very interesting abstract is inserted in this paper at the particular request of several patriot citizens, who anxiously wish the respective states would (ere it be too late) vest Congress with power adequate to the great national business that claims their attention, and for the want of which this country hath already been materially injured in her interest and reputation. —

"THAT when America shall manifest a real determination to fulfil her part of the treaty, Great-Britain will not hesitate to prove her sincerity to co-operate in whatever points depend on her to carry every article of it into real and complete effect.

“The grievances complained of by merchants and other British subjects having estates, property, and debts due to them in the several states, are as follow:

“Massachusetts-Bay.—The act passed the 3d of November 1784, suspending the payment of interest.

"New-York.—The act of the 12th of July 1782, by which British creditors are precluded from the claim of interest on all debts before the first of January 1776, until after the first of January 1783, and executions on the principal are forbidden to have “Virginia.—By an edict of the governor, the 2d of July 1783, the British agents and factors who had been expelled from that state ordered to depart, and the restriction which had been placed on their residence removed. The legislature in November following passed an act that the British agents and factors should be allowed to return.—That by an act of the legislature in 1784, all British debts are to be paid in seven equal payments; the first was made the 1st of April 1786, and is to be paid annually.—That no interest should be allowed to British subjects for debts contracted between the 19th of April 1783, and the 3d of March 1783, the latter date to be considered as one day.—That no interest should be allowed on the payment made by bond or other security, shall carry interest.—This act was passed in the house of delegates and senate, and has since that time received all the honours at the same time receive all the honours of the law, therefore it is doubtless that it exists as a law.—The sum of the treasury, on account of British creditors, 273,554l. 13s. 7d. = 12,035l. sterling.

his family, and is much soured from disappointments. He could therefore never make himself agreeable to the Americans, or useful to his country. Even the thoughts of Lord Londesborough protection can never surmount the difficulties.
This business is of a serious nature, let Ministers
look to the consequences.

May 14. America has involved this country in two wars, first to protect, and lastly to secure its dependence; in this view, the loss of the colonies is by no means to be deplored; as we have now a fairer chance for a long peace, than we have had from the beginning of the century.

Among the various circumstances which will serve, in the hands of future historians, to mark the character of the King of Prussia, none will appear more striking than this, that, in old age,
when the infirmities of that period were heaped upon his head, and his life hung in suspense in the hands of his physicians, so vigorous was his genius, and so powerful the terror of his name,
that Germany, and the neighbouring nations,
though armed and prepared for hostilities, kept profound silence and peace.

The American Minister flatly denies the charge of his being paid through the medium of the French Ambassador, as stated by Lord George Gordon, and challenges his Lordship, Mr. Grant, Mr. Tufts, Mr. Gray, and all the rest of mankind, to lay before the public whatever intelligence, evidence, or colour
of suspicion, which they have, or suppose, pretend, or imagine they have, to the contrary.

May 19. Mrs. Eden has brought forth a son at Paris; and this, notwithstanding the reports of certain news papers, is the only thing which the ne-gociation has as yet produced.

On Tuesday died at Barnet, in the 100th year of his age Mr. Job Meritton;
he has lived for the last twenty years wholly on vegetable diet, without any other beverage than milk of which he took one pint every morning at breakfast, and never drank the whole day after.

CHARLESTON, (S. C.) July 7.

The great utility of the late establishment of stages in this city, by Mr. Twining, is every day more sensibly felt and acknowledged. Instead of an uncertain voyage by sea, exceedingly hostile unto many constitutions, who cannot bear the being cooped up in an inconvenient sea boat, and even this inconvenience exceedingly expensive, a facile, certain mode of land travelling is now opened from Savannah to Boston.
But an object of still higher importance is the regularity in which letters will in future be received. For the purpose of diffusing knowledge, as well as extending the living principles of government to every part of the United States, every State, city, county, village, and township in the Union should be united by means of the Post Office. This is the true non electric wire of government. It is the only means of conveying heat and light to every individual in the federal commonwealth. Sweden lost her liberties, says the Abbe Raynall, because her citizens were so scattered, that they had no way of acting in concert with each other. It should be a constant injunction to the post masters to convey news papers free of all charge for postage.
They are not only the vehicles of knowledge and intelligence, but the centinels of the liberties of our country.

Congress allow Mr. Twining 15,000 dollars for carrying the mails.

PETERSBURG, July 6.

A gentleman just from Kentucky, informs that the Indians continue to came into the neighbourhood of Stroud's, and stole a number of horses; but being pursued by a party, under command of Capt. M'Entire, three of the Indians and a white man were killed, and the horses

taken, together with the Indians baggage, arms and ammunition: That in a very short time after, the Indians killed and scalped a white woman, who lived near a place called the Crab Orchards.

RICHMOND, July 8.

We are informed the late rains in South-Carolina have done great damage to the planters in many parts of that State, particularly along Santee, where their promising crops are most generally destroyed.

A London paper of May mentions,
that an account was just arrived from France, of judgement having been pronounced at Paris, upon the several persons concerned imposing upon the jewell-er, by the use of the Queen's name, and that their sentences were as follows:

Madame de la Motte, to lose her head
upon a public scaffold.—Madame Oliva to be confined for life.—Cardinal de Rohan banished for life from court, and to be confined for the same period, within the district of his country seat and gardens near Paris.—Count Cagliostro to be discharged.

NEW-YORK, July 17.

The withholding from us the posts ceded
by the treaty, though preventive of our fur-trade, has, for the last year, operated much against the interest of one of those provinces. Their last remittances in fur, the principal and almost sole export of the province, have not only disappointed their reasonable expectations, but have greatly added to the distresses before too seriously felt by the commercial interest of that province.

BOSTON, July 17.

Accounts are received, by the way of St. Croix, that the ship United States, Capt.
Hussey, on a whaling voyage, from this port, is cast away on the Falkland-Islands, with 700 barrels of oil.

We are informed, that General Greene
lost his life by a Coup de Soleil, occasioned by his walking abroad, on a very hot day, uncovered.—It is said he survived the stroke three days, during which he was totally deprived of reason.

A representation of the conduct of the Refugees, in the seizures, &c. in the eastern parts of this Commonwealth, we hear, has been made, by our Supreme Executive, to Congress—who no doubt will direct their Ambassador, at the Court of London, to demand immediate and ample reparation for the indignity offered thereby to the authority of the United States.

PROVIDENCE, July 22.

A correspondent informs, that "on the 13th instant a small dog, belonging to Mr. Joseph Buffum, of Smithfield, ran mad. In the morning he bit a number of hogs at and near home, then ran down the road with his mouth open, and was seen to bite four other dogs; how many more were bit by him is uncertain. It was remarked, that though very gentle and quiet when well, his

of Mr. Sylvanus Bucklin, about nine miles from his mother's, toward this town, but in the evening returned home on a full run, and got into the house; the family being frightened left the room, when some of the neighbours assembled, and the door being opened, he rushed out and was killed immediately. Several other dogs have been disordered in that neighbourhood, but were killed before much damage was done. Two hogs were bitten by them, one of which died, and the other, on the appearance of madness, was killed. These being well-authenticated facts, it is incumbent on every person, keeping dogs, to carefully watch them, and upon the least symptoms of madness appearing to kill them. Indeed it is a matter well worthy the attention of authority to consider whether the keeping of dogs had not better be more discouraged, as they are dangerous, and the provisions devoured by them might be better disposed of. In case of a bite from a mad dog, it is recommended to cut out a piece immediately, if it be in a safe part; if not, scarify the part, and apply a cupping-glass repeatedly, after which apply such dressings as will the most effectually keep the wound open, and make a running sore. For want of a proper cupping-glass, any glass or cup, with a little lighted tow put in and turned upon the part, will perhaps effectually extract the poison, with the adjacent humours, if immediately applied. This is proposed to the consideration of the faculty, and others concerned."

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.
Tuesday afternoon, the 4th instant, a shower of rain from the west, attended with hail, fell in and near this city: since which we learn that the hail has done much damage in different parts of the country.—At Moyamensing some fields of wheat were considerably injured by it; but in Hartford township, Chester county, about 15 miles from this city, the hail stones were so large, and descended with such violence, that one field of wheat was entirely beat down, level with the ground; thirty-seven lights of glass were broken in one house, and all the glass and many of the sashes in another house which faced the storm, were destroyed.—Our informant adds, that the hail stones were in many places as large as turkie eggs, some of them measuring 6 inches round but of irregular shape; in other places they were of the size of walnuts.—Those that fell in this city were not larger than hazle nuts, and we are told that no hail was seen above the Northen-Liberties.

NORWICH, July 27.
Last Friday, a negro girl of about 14 years old, owned by the widow Rogers of New-London, murdered a little daughter of Mr. James Boles of the same place in the 7th year of her age.—The horrid act was perpetrated about three miles from New-London city, on the road leading to this place.—The particulars as near as we can learn are, that a few weeks past a trifling childish dispute happened between them; ever since which the negro has retained a cursed secret determination for revenge, and not having an opportunity for the purpose till that fatal morning, meeting with the child going to school, she pounded her with stones till she expired; then left the poor innocent victim by the side of the wall, with a heap of stones piled on her, concluding it would be judged that the wall had fell on her and caused her death.—The child was soon discovered and every precaution used to detect the murderer, which proved ineffectual till the next morning, when circumstances which appeared alarming) upon which, she confessed the fact and gives the particulars as has been related. She is safely lodged in goal for trial.

Last week a transient person, by the name of James Morrow, was apprehended in this town for committing a rape on the body of a girl of about 14 years of age; he was examined, and committed to prison for trial, at the Superior Court in September next.

The grain and hay in this quarter, has come in much better than was feared—some few fields of wheat and rye have experienced a small blast only.—At present the prospect for the latter harvest appears uncommonly good.

Joshua Martin, Esq. formerly his Britannic Majesty's Governor of North-Carolina, lately died in London.

Thoughts on Religion.

ERRORS and mistakes however gross, in matters of opinion, if they are sincere, ought to be pitied, but not punished nor laughed at. The blindness of the understanding is as much to be pitied as the blindness of the eyes; and it is neither laughable nor criminal for a man to lose his way in either case. Charity bids us endeavour to set them right by argument, but at the same time forbids us either to punish or ridicule his misfortune. Every man seeks for truth, but God only knows who has found it; it is unjust to persecute, and absurd to ridicule people for their several opinions, which they cannot help entertaining upon the conviction of their reason; it is he who acts or tells a lie that is guilty, and not he who honestly believes the lie. The object of all public worship in the world is the same, it is that great Eternal Being who created every thing. The different manners of worship are by no means subjects of ridicule, each thinks his own the best: and I know no infallible judge in this world to decide which is the best.

urther addition to, and explanation of titled, "an act for collecting and ates, or Taxes."

AS by said Act it is enacted, "That the real Estate that any one is seized of, in his own Right in Fee, within be liable to stand chargeable with from the are thereof

"Sale or Transfer thereof, or any Attachment there-
"on." And whereas by the Provisions of said Act, for the Redemption of any such Estate, some Doubts have arisen whether any other Person has a Right to redeem Estate sold agreeable to said Act for the Payment of Taxes than the Proprietor, or Proprietors, for whose Taxes said Estate was sold ; which Doubts to remove,

RESOLVED by this assembly, That the intent
and meaning of said act is, that any proprietor, whether original, or an after purchaser, or any creditor attaching such estate, or their heirs, may at any time within the time limited, redeem said estate, by paying the principal sum
for which such sale is made, and double interest thereon, in the same monies and securities due on the taxes for which the sale was made, and all cost arising thereon.

And it is hereby further enacted by the Governor,
Council and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That for the future it shall and may be lawful for any creditor or creditors to any person whose real estate has been sold for taxes, agreeable to said former act, and not redeemed within the time limited (by said proprietor, or proprietors, or their heirs or representatives, or other person attaching, previous to the sale made for said taxes) may redeem
the same in the same manner, as is provided for the proprietor or proprietors, on whose account such sale was made, and shall hold the same as a lien for security in nature of a mortgage, for so much as he shall advance for the redemption thereof, and which shall be first paid out of the avails of said estate, before any other demand whatsoever.

And it is hereby further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That where any creditor to the real owner or owners of such estate, in order to clear the same from the taxes, shall advance and pay the public demands thereon, whether before the sale of such estate at auction, or after, shall be paid out of the avails of such estate, or otherwise the full value of the monies, or whatever else he has so advanced, and double interest thereon,
before said estate shall be cleared of that incombrance.

An act for the sale of lands belonging to this State.

BE it enacted by the Governor, Council and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the Authority of the same, That the several Judges of Probate under whose Administration, or within whose Districts, any Lands belonging to this State are now unfold, may, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to give orders for the disposal of such lands, at private sale, in the whole or by parts, or at public vendue, at discretion, as shall be found most convenient, and beneficial for the State.

And said judges of probate respectively, are hereby authorized and empowered in behalf of this State, to make and execute deeds of conveyance,
with warranty, of such lands in due form of law,
and the same shall be good, authentic, and legal evidence of title of such lands to the grantees, in the several courts of law in this State.

And all such land, already agreed to be sold by order of Law, and deeds not yet given, may be conferred to the purchasers by deeds executed by the respective judges of probate, as by this act is provided. And said judges of Probate shall receive payment for all such lands in specie, or liquidated securities of this state for lawful money,
on interest, and shall render an account thereof
to the treasurer of this state within one year from the time of such sale.

The lands in New Haven, New-London and Groten, appropriated for building forts, &c. for defence of this state to be reserved for that use,
any thing in this act notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,
That said judges of probate shall call to account
all persons in their several districts, who by virtue of any law, or otherwise have had the possession of any estate for the use of this state, and not duly accounted for the same, and receive payment as aforesaid, and pay the balance that shall be due into the treasury ; and in case any person, accountable as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to render an account, it shall be the duty of such judge of probate to proceed in a due course of law against such person, in the name and behalf of this state, to final judgment and execution for recovery thereof.

POETRY.

AN EPISTLE FROM A YOUNG LADY, TO A FRIEND.

TO Heaven and you, my friend, I confess
At once my flame, my passion, and my grief;
And, O! if pity may avail a crime,
That sullies honor to remove it, time,
Judge from this faithful picture of my fate,
Whether that pity should my crime atone;
Cover'd with crimson blushes, while I tell
From white-robb'd truth and virtue how I fell;
From spotless innocence, to a meek-eyed peace,
A prey to horror, victim of disgrace.

A youth by nature and by art possess'd
Of all that melts a sympathetic breast,
Such sweet perfusion on his accents hung,
That while he spoke, I thought an angel sung,
Whose kneeling vows in fabled passion given,
Appear'd to me the registers of heaven;
With all the arts deception could inspire,
Taught me to love, to pity, to admire,
Eternal truth each broken sentence fill'd,
Through every vital boundary's rapture thrill'd;
My honest soul each abject thought disdain'd,
Yet rolling years his suit was unobtain'd,
Till impatience, hermits night deceive,
Made me to endless infamy a slave;
Dish'd the rich cup whence social comforts flow,
And left me heir to everlasting woe.

Can I forget the still, the solemn night,
Scene of my joy, my ruin, and my delight?
When modest Cynthia veil'd her silver face,
Too chaste to evidence my disgrace;
When with affected piety I took
His impious hands unclogg'd the sacred lock,
And join'd our hearts with that celestial chain,
Which death can only dissolve again.
The mystic ring upon my finger plac'd,
Emblem of love, unchangeable and chaste;
Then, Tarquin-like, to my embraces flew;
While every angel from my side withdrew.

Own, wretch obdurate, though you can't relent,
Your present state is distant from content,
Her you abandon'd in pursuit of wealth,
Had ease, good humor, health, and health;
Had love to cheer, should a very comfort fail,
And temper gentle as the southern gale;
Unlike the canker'd, thy fit snapper bride,
Fraught with detraction, envy and pride;
Who, while her coiffers bristled with gems and pearls,
Grudges each tasteless morsel that you eat;
Whole send like foul asps at no content,
But the infernal pleasure to torment.

Here would I close the awful waking tale,
And o'er the sequel cast a fit veil;
To dumb obscurity the ill sign
That adverse fortune deign'd to be mine;
But though my heart at every sentence bleed,
My sex's welfare prompts me to proceed.

With hope and fear alternate conflicts spent,
Two tedious days since I no longer weat;
I sigh'd, I lov'd, I look'd, I long'd in vain,
And every moment was a scene of pain;
No streaming tears could give my woes relief,
Tears, the poor refuge of common grief;
The third a fever's burn'd heat express'd
The potent fury of a stand suppress'd.
Vain was recourse to tenderness of art,
Sorrow and flame were warring on my heart;
And wild distraction let my tongue reveal
The fatal secret reason would conceal.

Life from the great, the rich, the happy, flies,
But grief's immortal, and never dies;
Else, why ye powers did this stroke survive?
Why am I still in misery live?

A tender mother to confusion wrought,
The fatal cause of my affliction sought;
Told him in words that melt a Nero melt,
The sting her daughter's absence felt;
While from her eye the tears of pity stole,
That spoke the kind sensations of her soul;
But to her pleadings no regard was shown,
The wretch was callous as the frigid zone;
Then 'gainst her life her smothering hand she bent,
Nor e'er return'd to tell the event
No longer worthy her name to claim,
She left me full of age and shame.

O! thou to nature's laws unknown,

This tragic tale unshaken who can hear?
Nor pay the gen'ral tribute of a tear.
Know that when worldly justice shall fail,
To awful Heaven's tribunal I'll appeal,
Of joys eternal let thy soul despair,
For clad in torments I'll arraign thee there;
My bleeding mother shall confront thy sight,
And furies snatch thee from the realms of light.

FRIDAY, Jan. 18. A.M.
The 3d part of the 2d sect. of art. 1. still under con- sideration.

Mr. DAWES said he was sorry to hear so many objections raised against the paragraph under consideration. He thought them wholly unfounded; that the black inhabitants of the Southern States must be considered either as slaves, and as so much property, or in the character of so many freemen; if the former, why should they not be wholly represented? Our own State laws and Constitution would lead us to consider those blacks as FREEMEN, and so would our own ideas of natural justice: if then they are freemen, they might form an equal basis for representation as tho' they were all white inhabitants. In either view, therefore, he could not see that the Northern States would suffer, but directly to the contrary. He thought, however, that gentlemen would do well to connect the passage in dispute with another article in the Constitution, that permits Congress, in the year 1808, wholly to prohibit the importation of slaves, and in the mean time to impose a duty of ten dollars a head on such blacks as should be imported before that period. Besides, by the new Constitution, every particular state is left to its own option totally to prohibit the introduction of slaves into its own territories. What could the Convention do more? The members of the Southern States, like ourselves have their prejudices. It would not do to abolish slavery, by an act of Congress, in a moment, and so destroy what our Southern brethren consider as property. But we may say, that altho' slavery is not smitten by an apoplexy, yet it has received a mortal wound and will die of a consumption.

Messrs. King, Gore, Perkins and Jones (of Boston) spoke of the advantage to the northern States, the rule of apportionment in the 3d paragraph (still under debate) gave to them, as also the Honorable Judge Dana, the speech of whose speech is as follows:

The learned Judge began with answering some objections to this paragraph, and urging the necessity of Congress being vested with power to levy direct taxes on the States, and it was not to be supposed that they would levy such, unless the impost and excise should be found insufficient in case of a war. If says he, a part of the union is attacked by a foreign enemy, and we are disunited, how is it to defend itself? Can it by its own internal force? In the late war, this State singly was attacked; and obliged to make the first defence—What has happened may happen again. The State, oppressed must exert its whole power, and bear the whole charge of the defence: but common danger points out for common exertion; and this Constitution is excellently designed to make the danger equal. Why should one state extend its blood and treasure for the whole? Ought not a controuling authority to exist, to call forth, if necessary, the whole force and wealth of all the States? If disunited, the time may come when we may be attacked by our natural enemies:—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, filled with Tories and refugees, stand ready to attack and devour these States, one by one. This will be the case, if we have no power to draw forth the wealth and strength of the whole, for the defence of a part. Then shall we, continues the Hon. Gentleman, see, but too late, the necessity of a power being vested somewhere, that could command that wealth and strength when wanted. I speak with earnestness, said he, but it is for the good of my native country. By God and nature made equal, it is with remorse I have heard it suggested by some, that those gentlemen who have had the superior advantages of education, were enemies to the rights of their country. Are there any among this honorable body, who are possessed of minds capable of such narrow prejudices? If there are, it is in vain to reason with them; we had better come to a decision and go home. After dilating on this matter a short time, the learned Judge begged gentlemen to look around them, and see who were the men that composed the assembly. Are they not, he asked, men who have been foremost in the cause of their country, both in the cabinet and in the field; and who with halts about their necks, boldly and intrepidly advocated the rights of America, and humanity, at home and in foreign countries? and are they not to be trusted? Direct taxation is a tremendous idea; but may not necessity dictate it, to be unavoidable. We all wish to invest Congress with more power; we disagree only in the quantum, and manner in which Congress shall lay taxes on the States. A capitation tax is abhorrent to the feelings of human nature; and I venture to trust will never be adopted by Congress. The learned judge pointed out, on various grounds the utility of the power to be vested by the Congress, and concluded by observing, that the proposed constitution was the best that could be framed;—that if adopted we shall be a great and happy nation; if rejected, a weak and despised one: we shall fall as the nations of ancient times have fallen;—that this was his firm belief; and, says he, I would rather be annihilated than give my voice for, or sign my name to a constitution, which in the least should betray the liberties or interests of my country.

NORWICH: PRINTED BY JOHN TRUMBULL, NEAR THE MEETING-HOUSE.

Proceedings of the Convention of Massachusetts.

THE Hon. Mr. King said, he would not detain the Convention by any exordium, for the purpose of obtaining their attention. He declared, however, that he thought the subject might be free from certain errors, and that the question might receive a fair decision;—this should be the object of his address.

The Hon. Gentleman observed, that the Convention would do well to lay aside the terms annual or biennial, and consider the subject as it could be supported by principles. Much had been said of the instruction to be derived from history on this point; he said, he presumed to doubt whether this was the case. From the continent of Europe he believed, that we could receive no instruction; their Parliaments after the overthrow of the Roman Empire, were not constructed upon the principle of the representation of the people. The conqueror of a given district of country, was, by the feudal system, the prince or king of the people, within his conquered territories; when he wished the advice of any persons, he summoned usually a number of his principal officers, or the barons of his kingdom, to give him their council; but the people, or as they were degradingly called, the vassals were never consulted. This certainly cannot be considered as a representation of the people: This mode of assembling a Parliament probably obtained in the early stages of the English history; but those who have written on this subject agree that their information is very imperfect relative to the origin of English Parliaments; they are not certain, who composed the Parliament, how long they held their office, or concerning what points they were consulted.

Nothing clear on this subject appears before the 12th century. Magna charta is the foundation of the imperfect representation of England; improvements have since been made in favour of the more equal and certain representation of the people; but it is still extremely imperfect and insecure. Perhaps the people of America are the first, who by the social compact, ever obtained a right to a full and fair representation, in making the laws of their country.

If then, continued Mr. K. history can afford little or no instruction on this subject, the Convention must determine the question upon its own principles. It seems proper, that the representatives should be in office time enough to acquire that information which is necessary to form a right judgment; but that the time should not be so long as to remove from his mind the powerful check upon his conduct, that arises from the frequency of elections, whereby the people are enabled to remove an unfaithful representative, or to continue a faithful one. If the question is examined by this standard, perhaps it will appear, that an election for two years is short enough for a representative in Congress: if one year is necessary for a representative to be useful in the State legislature, where the objects of his deliberations are local, and within his constant observation; two years does not appear too long, where the objects of deliberation are not confined to one State, but extend to thirteen States;—where the complicated interests of united America, are mingled with those of foreign nations, and where the great duties of national sovereignty will require his constant attention. When the representatives of the colony of Massachusetts were first chosen, the country was not settled more than fifteen or twenty miles from Boston, they then held their offices for one year. The emigrants from Massachusetts, who settled on Connecticut River, appointed the representatives to meet in the General Court of that colony, for only six months—Massachusetts, although her settlements have extended over almost her whole territory, have continued to deputize representatives for only one year, and Connecticut for only six months; but as in each of these colonies, when under the British government, the duties of the representatives were merely local, the great duties of sovereignty being vested in their king, so in the colonies, the duties have continued local, and many of the authorities of sovereignty being vested in Congress. It is now proposed to increase the powers of Congress—this will increase the duties of the representatives, and they must have a reasonable time to obtain the information necessary to a right discharge of their office.

It has been said, that our ancestors never relinquish'd the idea of annual elections. This is an error. In 1643, the colonies of Plymouth, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New-Haven, united in a confederation, which continued about 40 years: Each colony sent two commissioners as their representatives, and by their articles they were to be annually elected. About the year 1650 the General Court of Massachusetts instructed their commissioners to propose that the elections instead of being annual should be only once in three years. The alteration did not take place, but the anecdote proves, that our ancestors have not had an uniform predilection for annual elections.

Mr. K. concluded by observing, that in a candid examination of this question, he presumed, that the Constitution would not be objected to on account of the biennial election of the house of representatives.

Judge DANA. The intention of my rising, sir, is to acquiesce with the gentleman from Newbury-Port, in favor of the expediency of biennial elections of our federal representatives. From my own experience, I think them preferable to annual elections. I have, sir, seen gentlemen in Congress, and delegates from this State too, sitting in that hon. body, without a voice—without power to open their mouths, or lift up their hands, when matters of the highest importance to their state have been under consideration. I have seen members in Congress, for the space of three months, without power, Sir, waiting for evidence of their re-election. Annual elections, sir, are not long enough in so great a continent. They keep the members always traveling about; and I am of opinion, that elections for two years are in no way injurious to the liberties of the people. I, sir, am one of the people, thank God! and am happy in having an opportunity of expressing my personal satisfaction of such elections. For these, and a variety of other reasons, Mr. D. suggested that he thought this State ought to be the first to adopt this method of election.

The Hon. Mr. WHITE still thought, that Congress might perpetuate themselves, and so reign emperors over us.

Hon. Mr. GORHAM observed (in continuation of Mr. Dana's observation) that there was not now a Congress, although the time of their meeting had considerably elapsed. Rhode-Island, Connecticut, and several other States, had not gone on; that there was now only five States in Congress, when there ought to have been thirteen two months ago.

Mr. CARNES rose to confirm it, and accordingly read part of a letter from the Hon. Mr. OTIS; the purport of which was, that there was much business to do—that only five States were represented, and that the probability of an Indian war, &c. evinced the great necessity of the establishment of an efficient federal government, which will be the result of the adoption of the proposed Constitution.

Wednesday, January 16. P. M.
The 2d part of the 2d sect. of the 1st art. was read and discussed. The Convention was divided on the mode of conducting the discussion: it was again agreed, that in the debate on any paragraph gentlemen might discuss any other part he might suppose had relation to that under consideration.

Mr. BISHOP rose and observed, that by the 4th. sect. Congress would be obliged to controul the election of representatives. It has been said, that the States may be made to do their duty. But if so, sir, why was it not mentioned? If that was the intention, he asked why the vote did not run thus, "The time, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but if Congress may, &c." This, he said would admit of no pervariation. I am, says Mr. B. for giving Congress as much power to do good as possible. It has been said, Mr. President, that the conduct of Rhode-Island, in recalling its delegates from Congress, has demonstrated the necessity of such a power being lodged in Congress. I have been informed by people belonging to Rhode-Island, sir, that that state never has recalled its delegates from Congress; I do not believe so. And I call upon the gentleman who mentions it, to authenticate the fact.

The Hon. Mr. KING rose, and assured the Convention, that the Hon. Mr. BISHOP was mistaken, by a solemn resolution, for Rhode-Island, recall its delegates from Congress.

The Hon. Mr. GORHAM confirmed what Mr. K. had said, and added, that during the session of the federal Convention, when seven States only were represented in Congress, application was made by two companies for the purchase of lands, the sale of which would have sunk 7 or 8 millions of dollars, of the continental debt, and that the most pressing letters were sent on to Rhode-Island, and to send on its delegates, but that state refused to do so, the consequence was the contract could not then be made.

Mr. BISHOP confessed himself convinced of the fact. He proceeded to observe, that if the States shall refuse to do their duty, then let the power be given to Congress to oblige them to do it. But if they do their duty, Congress ought not to have a power to controul elections. An uncontrouled representation, says Mr. B. lies the security of freedom: And he thought by this, that that freedom was forfeited with. In fact, says he, the moment we give Congress this power, the liberties of the yeomanry of this country are at an end. But he trusted they would never give it, and he felt a consolation from the reflection.

The 4th section, which provides that the state legislatures shall prescribe the time, place, and manner of holding elections;—and that Congress may at any time make or alter them except in those of senators, (though not in regular order) under deliberation.

Mr. PARSONS contended for vesting in Congress the powers contained in the 4th sect. not only as those powers were necessary for preserving the union, but also the securing to the people their equal rights of election.

The Hon. Mr. WHITE said, we ought to be jealous of rulers. All the gods when we read of have failed—say, he would not trust a flock of Moses. If we give up this sect, says he, there is nothing left. Suppose the Congress should say, that none should be elected but those worth 50 or an equal term, cannot they do it. Yes, says he, they can, and if any lawyer (alluding to Mr. PARSONS) can beat me out of it, I will give him 10 guineas.

Judge SUMNER, remarking on Gen. Thompson's frequent exclamation of "O my country!" expressed from an apprehension that the Constitution would be acquired, said, that expression might be used with greater propriety, should this Convention reject it. The Hon. Gentlemen then proceeded to discuss the the necessity of the 4th sect—the absurdity of the proposition, that Congress was to remove the place of the seat of government from the place of the seat of government, and conclude, that if a war should take place, (and it was probable) if France and Holland should send an army to collect the millions of livres they have lent us in the time of our distresses, and the army should be in possession of the seat of government of any particular State, (as was the case when Lord Cornwallis ravaged Carolina) and the State legislature could not appoint the elections, is not a power to provide for such elections necessary to be lodged in the general Congress?

Rev. Mr. West, I rise to express my astonishment at the arguments of some gentlemen against this section 1. They have only started possible objections—I with the gentlemen would show us, that what they so much deprecate is probable. Is it probable that we shall choose men to ruin us? Are we to object to all governments; and because power may be abused, shall we be reduced to anarchy and a state of nature? What hinders our State legislature from abusing their power? They may violate the Constitution—they may levy taxes oppressive and intolerable, to the amount of all our property. An argument which proves too much, it is said, proves nothing. Some say, Congress may remove the place of elections to the State of South Carolina; that is inconsistent with the words of the Constitution, which says, "that the elections shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof." &c. and that representation shall be apportioned according to numbers, it will frustrate the end of the Constitution—and is a reflection on the gentleman who formed it: Can we, Sir, suppose them so wicked, so vile, as to recommend an article so dangerous? Surely gentlemen who argue these possibilities, show they have a very weak cause. That we may all be free from passions, prepossessions and party spirit, I sincerely hope, otherwise reason will have no effect. I hope there are none here but who are open to conviction, as it is the surest method to gain the suffrage of our consciences. The Hon. Gentleman from Seneca has told us, that the people of England, at the restoration, on account of the inconvenience of the confused state of the Commonwealth, ran mad with loyalty. If the gentleman meant to apply this to us, we ought to adopt this Constitution—for if the people are running mad after an energetic government, it is best to stop now, as by his rule they may run further and get a worse one; therefore the gentleman's arguments turn right against himself. Is it possible that imperfect men can make a perfect Constitution? Is it possible that a frame of government can be devised by such weak and frail creatures, but what must favour of that weakness? Though there are some things that I do not like in this Constitution, yet I think it necessary that it should be adopted. For may we not rationally conclude, that the persons we shall chuse to administer it will be in general good men?

Gen. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I have frequently heard of the abilities and the fame of the learned and reverend gentleman last speaking, and now I am witness to them: But, Sir, one thing surprises me—it is, to hear the worthy gentleman insinuate that our federal rulers will undoubtedly be good men, and that therefore, we have little to fear from their being intrusted with all power. This, Sir, is quite contrary to the common language of the clergy, who are continually representing mankind as reprobate and deceitful, and that we really grow worse and worse day after day. I really believe we do, Sir, and I make no doubt to prove it before I sit down, from the old testament. When I consider the man that slew the lion and the bear, and that he was a man after God's manner—his son, blest with all wisdom, I extremely doubt if I suspect my own heart, and I am almost sure of it.

(Several other gentlemen went largely into the debate on the 4th section, which those in favour of it demonstrated to be necessary: first, as it may be used to correct a negligence in elections; secondly, as it will prevent the dissolution of the government by designing and refractory states; thirdly, as it will operate as a check, in favour of the people, against any designs of the federal Senate; and their constituents, the State legislatures, to deprive the people of their rights of elections; and fourthly, as it provides a remedy for the evil, should any State, by invasion, or other cause, not have it in its power to appoint a place, where the citizens thereof might meet to elect their federal representatives. Those against it urged, that the power is unlimited and unnecessary.)

P. M. The 2d paragraph of the 2d sect. of the first art. was reverted to—and some debates had thereon. Gen. THOMPSON thought there should have been some qualification of property in a representative, for says he, when men have nothing to lose they have nothing to fear.

Hon. Mr. SPENCER said, that this objection was founded on an anti-democratical principle—and was surprised that gentlemen who appeared so strenuously to advocate the rights of the people, should wish to exclude from the federal government a good man, because he was not a rich one.

Mr. KING said, that gentlemen had made it a question—why a qualification of property in a representative is omitted—and that they thought the provision of such a qualification necessary—he thought otherwise, he never knew that property was an index to abilities. We often see men, said he, who (though destitute of property, are superior in knowledge and rectitude. The men who have most injured the country, have most commonly been rich men. Such a qualification was proposed in Convention; but by the delegates of Massachusetts, it was contested that it should not obtain. He observed that no such qualification is required by the confederation. In reply to general Thompson's question, why disqualification of age was not added, the honourable gentleman said that it would not extend to all parts of the continent alike. Life, says he, in a great measure depends on climate. What in the southern States would be accounted long life, would be but the meridian in the northern—what here is the time of ripened judgment, is old age there. There is the want of such a disqualification, cannot be met; an objection to the constitution.

The third paragraph of the 2d sect. being read, Mr. KING rose to explain it. There has, says he, been much misconception of this sect. It is a principle of this constitution, that representation and taxation should go hand in hand. This paragraph states, that the numbers of free persons shall be determined adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for terms, and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other persons. These persons are the slaves. By this rule was representation and taxation to be apportioned. And it was adopted, because it was the language of all America. According to the confederation, ratified in 1781, the sums for the general welfare and defence, should be apportioned according to the surveyed lands, and improvements thereon, in the several States. But that has never been in the power of Congress to follow that rule; the returns from the several States being so very imperfect.

Mr. WIDGERY asked, if a boy of six years of age, was to be considered as a free person? Mr. KING, in answer, said, all persons born free, were to be considered as free men; and to make the idea of taxation by number, more intelligible, said, that 5 negro children of South Carolina, are to pay as much tax as the three governors of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Connecticut.

Mr. NASSON adverted to a statement of Mr. KING, who had said, that five negro children of S. Carolina were equally rateable as three Governors in New-England, and wished, he said, the Hon. Gentleman had considered this question upon the other side—as it would then appear that this State will pay as great a tax for three children in the cradle, as any of the Southern States will for five hearty working negro men. He hoped, he said, while we were making a new government, we should make it better than the old one: for if we had made a bad bargain before, as had been hinted, it was a reason why we should make a better one now.

Mr. TRUMBULL. The annexed being an act lately passed by the Legislature of one of our sister States, and casually coming into my hands, I thought it worthy to be inserted in your liberal paper. And tho' I am sensible that the sentiments contained therein, will offend bigots and opposing sects, who make religious tests a hobby horse to ride to places of honor and emolument; yet from a full conviction of the propriety and policy that would attend an act of this kind, being passed in our honorable Assembly, I offer these ideas on the subject, to the consideration of the people at large; and particularly to those gentlemen who form our Legislative Body, and from whom we expect Candour, Justice and Liberality. I trust a majority of their opinions will coincide with my own.

WHEREAS Almighty God created the mind free; that all attempts to influence it by temporal punishment or burdens, or by civil incapacitation, tend only to beget habits of hypocrisy and meanness, and are a departure from the plan of the holy author of our religion, who being Lord both of body and mind, yet chose not to propagate it by coercions on either, as was in his Almighty power to do; that the impious presumption of legislators and rulers civil, as well as ecclesiastical, who being of themselves but fallible and unenlightened men; have assumed dominion over the faith of others, setting up their own opinions, and modes of thinking as the only true and infallible, and as such endeavoring to impose them on others, hath established and maintained false religions over the greatest part of the world thro' all time; that to compel a man to furnish contributions of money for the propagation of opinions which he disbelieves is sinful and tyrannical; that even the forcing him to support this or that preacher of his own religious persuasion, is depriving him of the comfortable liberty which his constitution has a right to; and that his private morals

he would make his pattern, and whose powers he feels most persuasive to righteousness, and is withdrawing from the military those temporal rewards which proceeding from an approbation of their personal conduct are an additional incitement to earnest and unremitting labours for the instruction of mankind; that our civil rights have no dependence on our religious opinions, any more than our opinions in physics or geometry; that therefore the prohibiting any citizens as unworthy the public confidence by laying upon him an incapacity of being called to offices of trust and emolument, unless he profess or renounce this or that religious opinion, is depriving him injuriously of those privileges and advantages to which, in common with his fellow citizens, he has a natural right; that it tends only to corrupt the principles of that religion its meant to encourage, by bribing with a monopoly of worldly honors and emoluments those who will externally profess and conform to it; that those indeed who are criminal who do not withstand such temptations, yet neither are those innocent who lay the bait in their way: that to suffer the civil magistrate to intrude his powers into the field of opinions, and to restrain the profession or propagation of principles on supposition of their ill tendency: is a dangerous fallacy, which at once destroys all religious liberty, because he being of course judge of that tendency will make his opinions the rule of judgment and approve or condemn the sentiments of others only as they shall square with or differ from his own; that it is time enough for the rightful purposes of civil government for its officers to interfere when principles break out into overt acts against peace and good order; and finally, that truth is great and will prevail; if left to herself, that she is the proper and sufficient antagonist to error, and has nothing to fear from the conflict unless by human interposition disarmed of her natural weapons, free argument and debate; errors ceasing to be dangerous when she is permitted freely to contradict them.

CANDID.

THE ACT,

"BE it therefore enacted by the General Assembly, That no man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship place or minister whatever; nor shall he be forced, restrained, molested, or burthened, in his body or goods, nor shall otherwise suffer on account of his religious opinions or belief, but that all men shall be free to profess and by agreement to maintain their opinions in matters of religion, and that the same shall in no wise diminish, enlarge or effect their civil capacities.

"And tho' we well know that this Assembly elected by the people for the ordinary purposes of Legislation, only; have no power to restrain the acts of succeeding Assemblies, constituted with powers equal to our own; and that therefore to declare this act irrevocable would be of no effect in law; yet we are free to declare and do declare, that the rights hereby asserted are of the Natural Rights of Mankind, and if an Act shall hereafter passed to repeal the present, or to narrow its operation, such act will be an infringement of Natural Right."

S A L E M, February 5.

Sunday a vessel arrived here from South-Carolina, by which we have been favoured with several Charleston papers.—The following extracts therefrom shew the favourable opinion entertained of the New Constitution by the Legislature of that State:

"Charleston Jan. 14. Last Friday, in the House of Representatives, Mr. E. Rutledge, as chairman of a committee appointed to consider the Governor's message, reported, that they had deliberated upon the New Federal Constitution, and were unanimously of opinion to recommend that the House should come into a resolution for calling a Convention of the People, to consider the New Federal Constitution."

"Commodore Gillon moved, that the thanks of this House be given to their Delegates in Federal Convention, for their attention and care to the interests of their country. Agreed to unanimously."

"On motion, ordered, that 600 copies of the New Constitution be printed, for information."

JANUARY 17.

"Yesterday the House of Representatives, in a committee of the whole, debated on the Federal Constitution till 4 o'clock. Mr. Lowndes stood ALONE in disapprobation of it."

"Monday last, in the House of Senate, resolved unanimously, that the thanks of this House be given to the delegates of this State in the Convention holden last year in the city of Philadelphia, for their faithful discharge of the duties of their appointment."

"Tuesday last, in the Senate, the committee appointed to consider his Excellency's message, and the papers accompanying it, reported, that writs should be issued for holding elections on the 22d and 43d days of February, for Delegates to meet in Convention, the 3d of March, in Charleston, to consider the proposed Federal Constitution."

B O S T O N, FEBRUARY 2.

On Thursday last, A. M. the Hon. Convention finished the discussion of the Federal Constitution by paragraphs—on which Mr. Parsons moved, "That this Convention do assent to, and ratify, the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by the Federal Convention." And the consideration of the motion immediately commenced.—In the afternoon his Excellency the President communicated the above propositions, which were under consideration yesterday.

Yesterday, on motion, the Hon. Convention voted, That the final decision on the question to accept or reject the Constitution in debate, be not taken until Tuesday next.

Feb. 7. Capt. Kent, who arrived here on Sunday afternoon, in ten days, from Edenton, North-Carolina, brought the pleasing intelligence, that on the 18th of January, the Convention of that State ASSENTED TO and RATIFIED the FEDERAL CONSTITUTION; with only two dissenting voices.

Tuesday forenoon, a motion, which had been expected for some days, was made by Mr. G. Dench, to this purport—That for the purpose of informing the good people of this Commonwealth of the principles of the proposed Constitution, and the amendments offered by his Excellency the President, this Convention do adjourn to a future day. This motion occasioned much debate—it was warmly advocated by the gentlemen who are against the adoption of the Constitution, and strongly opposed by the friends of the proposed system. The question on the motion was taken in the evening, when his Excellency the President, he said, had the great pleasure to declare, that the motion for adjournment had not obtained—the whole number of votes being 329.

On the glorious sixth of February, 1788.

Hail the day, and mark it well,
Then Old Anarch's kingdom fell—
Then our dawning glory shone,
Mark it. Freeman, 'tis our own.

Ratification of the Federal Constitution, by Massachusetts.

With the highest satisfaction we announce to the public, that the Convention of this Commonwealth, yesterday afternoon, at five o'clock, assented to and ratified the Constitution, proposed by the late Federal Convention. On this pleasing event, we beg leave to congratulate the public, and to express our sincere wishes, that the general joy, which it has diffused through all ranks of citizens, may be an auspicious omen of the superior advantages, which will undoubtedly result from the establishment of such a federal government as this Constitution provides.

The open, manly and honourable conduct of the gentlemen who composed the minority, in the great question yesterday taken in the Hon. Convention, was very different from the turbulent opposers of the Constitution in Pennsylvania, who, not content with their declamatory and odious protest against its adoption, are now endeavouring to involve their country in all the horrors of a civil war, by exciting tumult and insurrection. On the vote of ratification being declared.

Hon. Mr. WELLS rose and said, that notwithstanding he had opposed the adoption of the Constitution, upon the idea that it would endanger the liberties of his country, yet, as a majority had seen fit to adopt it, he should use his utmost exertions to induce his constituents to live in peace under, and cheerfully submit to it.

He was followed by Mr. WEDGERY, who said, that he should return to his constituents, and inform them that he had opposed the adoption of this Constitution—but that he had been overruled, and that it had been carried by a majority of wife and understanding men;—that he should endeavour to sow the seeds of union and peace among the people he represented;—and that he hoped and believed, that no person would wish for, or suggest the measure of a PROTEST; for, said he, we must consider that this body is as full a representation of the people as can be conceived.—After expressing his thanks for the civility which the inhabitants of this town have shown to the Convention, declaring, as his opinion, that they had not in the least influenced the decision—he concluded by saying, that he should support as much as in him lay the Constitution, and he he begged, as this State had adopted it, that not only 9 but the whole 13 would come into the measure.

Gen. WHITNEY said, that though he had been opposed to the Constitution, he should support it as much as if he had voted for it.

Mr. COOLEY (Amherst) said, that he endeavoured to govern himself by the principles of reason;—that he was directed to vote against the adoption of the Constitution; and that in so doing, he had not only complied with his directions, but had acted according to the dictates of his own conscience; but that, as it had been agreed to by a majority, he should endeavour to convince his constituents of the propriety of its adoption.

Dr. TAYLOR also said, he had uniformly opposed the Constitution; that he found himself fairly beat;—and expressed his determination to go home, and endeavour to infuse a spirit of harmony and love among the people.

Other gentlemen expressed their inclination to speak, but it growing late, the Convention adjourned to this morning, ten o'clock.

Let this be told, to the honour of Massachusetts; to the reputation of her citizens, as men willing to acquiesce in that great republican principle, of submitting to the decision of a majority.

CHARLESTON, (S. C.) Dec 26.

The reason given by Spain for refusing to open the Mississippi is, the West Florida was a conquered country, by that nation, and therefore the Court of Great Britain had no right to insert in the treaty of peace with the United States the following clause: "Article VIII. The navigation of the river Mississippi, from its source to the ocean, shall forever remain free and open to the subjects of Great-Britain, and the citizens of the United States."

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 30.
Captain Joseph Ferry, of this town, a gentleman who for a number of years past, has had considerable experience in the delightful amusement of hunting, on Tuesday morning the 22d inst. shot one discharge of a musket, killed five wild Turkeys, weighing in all upwards of sixty pounds.

N O R W I C H, February 14.

The legislature of the State of New York, have appointed a Convention to take under consideration the federal Constitution: the time of their meeting we do not particularly learn, it is however to be at an early period.—Our accounts further say (notwithstanding what has heretofore been suggested) there is two for its adoption to one for its rejection.

Friday last a young lad by the name of Robinson, while skating between New-London and Groton, fell through the ice and was drowned.

On the 9th instant, a large Brigantine having on board a valuable cargo for the West-Indies, lat sail from New-London, and while cutting through the ice nearly off the Light House, was discovered to be half full of water, immediately thereon the filled; whereby 33 horses and most of her other cargo on deck, were swept entirely away.—We learn that she is got up without any further material damage.

The General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which was to have met on the 20th instant, is adjourned by proclamation to the 27th inst.

MARRIED, At Woodstock, JOHN LOVET, Esq. Attorney at Law, to Miss NANCY McLELLAN, Daughter of General McLELLAN.

DAY, MAY 29, 1788.

JOHN TRUMBULL, NEAR THE MEETING-HOUSE.

from their cast; those who have been in pillory, no matter whether with or without a stake, are as it were excommunicated; and by their own tribe or by their relations, and are driven out into the wilderness, where they will die of such a person who is once seen or it, is ever and degraded, and all his posterity. This tremendous bullock walking through his approach the inhabitants fled, and their desertion of their habitations, that he travelled 15 miles without seeing a fire house.

Widows, or husbandmen, were treated in a manner which would never gain belief if it were not attested by the company; and Mr. Burke apologized to their Lordships for the horror which he should be obliged to harrow up. The worthy commodore Patterson, in the particulars of this relation, at, for the credit of human nature, he drew a veil over them, but as he had been drawn into them, he must in discharge of his duty of particulars, however shocking they be. The cattle and corn of the husbandmen sold for less than a quarter of their value, reduced to ashes!—The unfortunate were obliged to borrow from officers, that they might pay their bonds, which had been unjustly extorted from them whilst they were in prison; and such was the determination of the Governor, to have these bonds discharged, wretched husbandmen were obliged to borrow, not at 20, or 30, 40, or 50, but at 100 per cent. to satisfy him! Those who had the money were most cruelly tortured: drawn tight round their fingers, till the four on each hand was actually incorporated solid mass; the fingers were then separated by iron and wood driven in between them were tied two and two by the feet and by a wooden bar, upon which they hung, feet uppermost; they were then beat on the feet till their toe nails dropped off. They afterwards beat about the head till the blood gushed out at mouth nose and ears; they were then upon the naked body with bamboo canes, whips; and above all with some poisonous herbs, were of a most caustic nature and burnt at the joints.

The cruelty of the monster who had ordered, had contrived to tear the mind as well as the body. He frequently had a father and a son tied to the stocks by the feet and arms, and then flogged till the flesh was torn from the flesh; and he had the devilment to know that every blow was a blow; for he had the son, his sensibility was wounded by the blow he had that the blow had fallen upon the same torture was felt by the father. He knew that every blow that missed him had fallen on his son.

The treatment of the females could not be described; for from the immorality of their houses, the religion of the country had made so many of them, they were exposed naked to public view: they were carried to courts of justice, where they usually have looked for protection; but now led for it in vain, for in the face of the sun, and modest virgins were publicly violated. The difference between their treatment and that of others was that the former were dishonoured in the day, the latter in the night recesses of dungeons. Other females had the nipples of their breasts put in a cleft bamboo and torn off. What moral nations most carefully conceal, this monstrous and confounded law fires; nay, the monstrous tools of the Governor, David Sing, had, horrid to tell! carried their unnatural cruelty so far as to drink in the fource of generation in life.

Now Mr. Burke dropt his head upon his hands, unable to proceed, so greatly was he oppressed by the horror which he felt at this relation. The effect of it was visible in the whole assembly. A lady in the great chamberlain's box fainted away, and other ladies sunk under the agitation of the things; among others Mrs. Siddons, albeit she is used to scenes of sorrow, fainted away.

Certainly such a tragedy was never exhibited on any stage.

Mr. Burke having recovered himself, said, that the fathers and the husbands of the hapless females were the most harmless and industrious set of men, content with scarcely sufficient for the support of nature, they gave almost the whole produce of their labour to the East-India company; those hands which had been broken by persons under the company's authority, produced to all England the comforts of their morning and evening tea; for it was with the rent produced by their industry, that the investments were made for the trade to China, where the tea which we use was brought.

He then called upon their Lordships to prevent the effects of the divine indignation, by bringing to justice the man who could employ so infamous an agent. Those wretched husbandmen would with their fastened hands lifted up to heaven call down its vengeance on their oppressors. He conjured their Lordships to avert that vengeance, by punishing them who had so grossly abused the power given them by this country.

Mr. Burke was here taken ill, but soon recovered, and was proceeding, when he was seized with a cramp in his stomach, and was disabled from proceeding; he was soon relieved from his pain, but was too much exhausted to be able to proceed.

Lord Derby immediately ran down to him to enquire how he did, and was instantly followed by the Prince of Wales, on the same errand. His royal highness, finding Mr. Burke so exhausted, immediately moved to adjourn. Mr. Burke had been speaking above three hours and a quarter.

LONDON, February 14.

YESTERDAY morning the five pirates condemned at the last Admiralty Session, viz. Thomas Johnson, John Ross, and John Thompson, alias Cattman, for piratically invading on the high seas, on the coast of Angola in Africa, the Purveyance Schooner, Jean Baptiste Louis Burgeois, master, and stealing and taking away with the Schooner and apparel, value 2000. the property of persons unknown: Henry Parsons and George Steward, mariners on board the East India ship the Ranger, for piratically endeavouring to combine with others to make a revolt on board the said ship, then on the high seas. Edmund Blount, Esq. commander of the said ship, being then on board; were hanged at Execution Dock.

When these people were brought up to receive sentence, Johnson being asked, why sentence should not be pronounced against him? Answered, he had nothing to assign on his own account but solicited much for his fellow-sufferers, who, he said, had been drawn in by him.

The following letter was addressed to a friend at Woolwich. It has some curious passages which makes it not unworthy the public eye:

"Dear Goshawk,

"I most certainly should have wrote you previous to this period, but delayed with a view that I should have before this time had it in my power to have waited on you in person. All hopes of that now being at an end, I have therefore embraced this opportunity to inform you of my unfortunate situation, which I feel to be already maas the no-leader of the affair. We have now been from week to week in the calls, and have been reported to come to the first Friday week, but yesterday is appointed for us to make our exit. Very powerful counsel made for my life, and the French Captain was the next day after our trial, and begged my life, on his knees to the French Ambassador, but all would not do. I am now going to the Atlantic merchants to petition his Majesty to make an example of me in order to deter others. But they may all be defied. I shall for the present say no more. I hope I have made my peace with God, at least I do the best of my endeavour.

I am, my friends, sing a psalm, and I am happily yours, and your friends.

A few days more, my boy, and I expect to be nearer you by time miles -- our globe is a round one, and the rest of the play will be ended some time this week, or the beginning of next at farthest. All men must die, and it makes but little difference what kind or manner of death we die, so as our souls are happy.

I should have wrote to Thompson, but really I am ashamed. Give my kind respects to him, to King, to the late Cawford Chambers, Carroll, and to every body who thinks proper to enquire after the unfortunate. I am, my friends, sing a psalm, and I am happily yours, and your friends.

Your sincere friend and well wisher.

THOMAS JOHNSON.

Condensed Review. Nottingham, January 1, 1788.

I wish you all a happy new year, and a happy return of them. Adieu! Adieu!

A bet of a singular nature was made a few days since between a member of Parliament and a gentleman well known on the turf,
which is likely to afford much amusement,
and it is perfectly novel, and for no less a sum than ten guineas. The wager is, that a gentleman shall go from London to the high, in any mode he chooses, while another makes a million dots with a pen and ink upon writing paper. A great number of other small bets are already made, which have made the event very interesting to many.

The fugitives from Holland, it is said,
have purchased land in France to the amount of 1,500,000 florins, by which means the nation have a considerable benefit, not only in the purchase of an immense quantity of wealth, but of people of affluent circumstances, manufacturers, labourers, farmers, arti-
crs, and soldiers.

Philosophers to a man, seem agreed, that the European climate have recently undergone a wonderful change; some aver that France is getting a jog to the northward, and England at the same time received another jog to the southward. Who knows, but to these natural jogs may be ascribed the continuation of the political governments of Europe?
For the Parliament of Paris, who formerly dared not even to look, but it pleased their Great Monarque, are at this moment in the midst of a religious discussion, and for the appointment of the Archbishop of Theolonius to his Prime Minister. While the Parliament of Great-Britain, who kept kings and ministers in reverential awe for centuries past, are at length submitted to a Parisian tribunal, and are now grown too liberal to discuss either on the uninteresting subjects

and even to the verge of terrible enormities. The vulgar will his long and bloody history without surprise, and indeed, as the re-self-created divinity, but the re-believing christian will be shocked at atrocious presumption; the gentee will lament the miserable condition who is called upon to idolize an lump of clay, like themselves.
who love pleasantries, would wish tion.

CASSIUS is a mealy mouthed fellow; and I begin to think he has not the real good of the people at heart. I am afraid that he is not honest; or that he is contriving to get into the Council himself. As that is not the case with me, if I catch him tripping, though we pretend to be on the same side, I will hold him up to infamy. But I will give my reasons, why I suspect him. He seems to be afraid to tell in plain words what he is after. He durst not speak out. If he were honest, and disinterested, he would come forth boldly, state his objections to this, that, or the other man, and call upon the people to act with him. On the whole, I am suspicious that the Council have employed him to write for them, and he has chosen his softly, still-born mode, to cheat us. But that wise body will find themselves mistaken. Catiline, is not Cassius. Catiline will drag the Council to the altar of public opinion; and then lay Cassius, and all other hypocrites at the bottom of the sacrifice.

I again call upon my fellow Freemen to turn out all the Council BUT THREE. Does any person want reasons, let him take the following. Turn them out—because we wish them turned out. Shall the State of Connecticut keep a man in office, when it does not wish to keep him. Turn them out—because they have been in long enough. No set of men, however honest, just and great, ought to hold offices a great while, in a free government. There should be a change often! Every man ought to take his turn. There is not a man in the State, who has not got sense enough to be a Counsellor for one year at least. Turn them out—because, as I said before, they would not repeal the appropriation. The importance of this point has been already settled in my other publication. Turn them out—because they would not give up the right of appointing Sheriffs. Last Spring, a bill was brought in to the Lower House to take away the right of appointing Sheriffs from the Council, and giving it to the Lower House. This bill passed the Lower House; and yet the Council had an opinion of their own on the subject, and therefore it was negatived. By this means, two worthy members of the Lower House lost the chance of getting in to be Sheriffs in two of the counties—because the Council will never appoint them. Whether the three members whom I wish to keep in, voted in favor of the bill, I am not quite certain; but if they did, I dare say they will change sides the next assembly. Lastly, turn them out—because there are a great many young, smart, forward LAWYERS who want their places.

CATILINE.

N. B. You ought to have dated my other piece at Newtown. I cannot afford to send my pieces round to all the Printers as Cassius does; but I wish they would all reprint them. I am writing more.

POLAND.

WARSAW, May 12.

ON the 8th inst. a circumstance occurred which caused much conversation here. In the afternoon, the king took his ordinary walk and crossed the river Wicksel towards Prague. A report immediately prevailed that the king wished to escape. As soon as the Russians and Prussians were on their march hither. In half an hour the whole town was armed, and cannon drawn out of the arsenal. It was however soon discovered that the rumour had been spread abroad by persons who were known to be attached to the Russian interest. Among these Count Auckwitz, and Gen. Zabiello, who with several others were instantly arrested. The people wished to hang these persons instantly; but on being assured that they should be tried the next day, and punished if found guilty, the mob was appeased.

On the morning of the 9th, the Provisionary Council assembled at the senate house, when the marshal of the crown, Ozarowski; count Auckwitz; Kossabowski, bishop of Lisland, and count Zabiello, were brought forth and made acquainted with the charge laid against them. In the afternoon, after a trial of four hours, they were all hung on four different gallows. Kollokowsky was executed on a gallows erected before a convent; and it is said, he requested to be first permitted to receive the sacrament, but this grace was refused him. The mob, both men and women, testified great joy. Under each gallows were inscribed these words: PUNISHMENT FOR THE TRAITORS TO THEIR COUNTRY. During the execution, the streets were filled with people under arms; there was no disturbance whatever. The bodies hung till a o'clock at night, when they were carried out of the town, and buried in the same manner as is usual with other prisoners. It is hoped that the people will be satisfied with these executions.

The Prussian minister Von Buckeburg has been recalled by the King, and has obtained a pass from the Council.

The utmost care and vigilance is still observed in the defence of Warsaw. Our troops form a line almost the whole way to Cracow. Skirmishes frequently take place between our troops and small detachments of Russians. Kosciusko would probably have made this city head quarters, if prudence would have permitted it—for in case of ill success he might be cut off by the Prussians from reaching Cracow. This General has published a Proclamation, that persons of all ranks, from 15 to 50 years of age should arm themselves for the defence of their country. The Nobles and Priests are ordered to supply the peasants with pikes. It is said that the Russian General Ischenström has made his retreat into South Prussia, in order to join his forces with others. The Poles found 80 pieces of cannon in the arsenal of Wilna.

The command of the Polish troops in Lithuania is given to the young Prince Sapieha, a relation of Count Potocki.

MAY 14.

It is said that the King had declared to the President Zackrezewski that he was friendly to the late Revolution. The President told him he must acquaint Kosciusko with his opinion. It is rumored that news is received of a corps of 3000 Russians having been completely driven from the whole province of Cracow. It is impossible to conceive how much the peasantry is enraged against the Russians to whom they give no quarter.

The Poles have made themselves masters of Lublin, in Mazovia, and put the whole Russian garrison to the sword.

Two regiments of infantry, two of cavalry and 530 men belonging to the artillery,

Warsaw, has gained over the Russian troops: but has no to an engagement.

ed with the Orion for five hours, during one of which the men could be picked off the guns with pistols.

"The Capt. of the Mutius Scævola, was a man of the most undaunted courage. During the action he ran 20 of his men thro' their bodies for attempting to desert their quarters. He was easily distinguished by a large bonnet rouge, ornamented round the bottom with a gold fringe. He had only one arm; but whether the other was shot off in the action, I have not been able to ascertain.

After the engagement was over, I went on board the French ship La Juste; the officers of which told me that she had not suffered so much as the other ships, having only lost 300 men.

The sinking of the Vengeur was one of the most awful sights I ever beheld. She went down within a quarter of a mile of our ship. We had not a tackle to hook to a boat, and our main yard was gone.

The Ratier cutter went with about six boats to save the crew of the Vengeur, but when her main-deck guns came on a level with the water, the boats rowed back, the suction being so great as to render it impossible for them to proceed nearer the ship. Her upper works remained upon the surface of the water, to our astonishment, for the space of 20 minutes; at the expiration of that time she sunk, the crew universally crying out, Vive La Republique! Vive La Liberte!

The red not shot fired by the French did a considerable deal of damage. The Brunus, a large frigate cut down from a line of battle ship, was employed in beating shot. She passed within gun shot of us and killed eight men on board the Queen.

WEST INDIES.

ANTIGUA.

St. JOHNS, July 28,

CAPT. MALVO who commands a French frigate, in company with another, on board of which are a number of Spanish troops, arrived at Guadaloupe a few days ago.

Three American vessels have got into Point a Petre with supplies for the French notwithstanding the lookout kept by his majesty's ships.

The Poles having gained several signal advantages over the Russians, has reduced her Imperial Majesty to reinforce her army in Poland to 70,000 men, and to justify her proceedings, has declared war against them.

The ship Gordon, Captain Boyman, we are apprehensive has been taken by the French, on her passage from this island to London.

There are now 1548 effective British troops with General Grey at Guadaloupe.

It is said a large fleet was to sail from England for the West Indies the latter end of June or early in July, and that several regiments were coming out at the same time to garrison the islands—should this be the case, we doubt not but the Americans, or whoever they are that have been seen carrying succours to the enemy at Point a Petre, will soon pay very dear for their extraordinary temerity.

General Prescott is immediately to take the command at Guadaloupe.

A Court of enquiry, of a very serious nature it is said, has taken place at Martinique.

On Saturday the 12th instant, Brigadier General Symes, Lieut. Colonel of the 52d Regiment, died on board his Majesty's ship Vengeance at St. Christopher's.

American Intelligence.

State of VIRGINIA.

MARTINSBURG, August 11.

BY several gentlemen who arrived here on Wednesday evening from Lexington, (Kentucky) and who left it the 18th ult. we were informed, that the last detachment of Gen. Scott's volunteers page of 21 days. The embargo brought these tyrants to their feelings, and had it continued, they would have felt its effects a little more sensibly, for the soldiers refused to do duty on account of short allowance, and in a short time, they would have eaten one another. The British are determined not to leave this island, for the most part of them are already under ground, and graves are digging for the rest as fast as possible. The molattoes have taken Fort Dauphin and several other places, and will soon have the whole island.

By the arrival of captain Tremble in the Delaware, from Dominique, information is received, that admiral Jervis was left Guadaloupe, and arrived at Dominique.

Extract of a letter from Fort Pitt.

"We are all in confusion at present owing to the late contest with General Neville: The wild Irish have assumed the reigns, & have threatened to shoot every man who may not choose to oppose the old, in hopes to establish a new government. Brackenridge, Gallatin, and Smilie are spoken of for chiefs, and it is reported that General Simcoe is to supply arms and ammunition. I have been ordered to depart within 24 hours, as being a suspected person. The violent acts which have marked the beginning of these troubles will soon end the contest, provided government oblige these people to embody in defence of their ringleaders. They are afraid of our moderation, as they cannot keep together long for want of resources; and it is now actually proposed by the insurgents to lay a duty of one dollar a gallon on whisky, in order to raise a contribution to defend themselves against the moderate excise established by government. I shall be with you in a few days if possible."

State of PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, August 18.

No newspapers having been received from Pittsburgh by the last mail, it is probable that the press there is stopped, or that the communication is cut off. The late intelligence states that General Gibson and others are besieged from that quarter, and that a body of men were attending to the execution of the decrees of the insurgents.

From examining the trail and tracks of the Indians on their retreat from Fort Recovery, on the 5th or 6th of July last, it would appear that the Wabash Indians and Patawatimes separated from the others above 12 miles from that place, and took a N. W. direction towards their towns; and at about 25 miles another trail broke off and steering an easterly course, towards Sandusky, supposed to be the Wyandots. By those trails it would appear that the Indians were scattering, and that there were from 250 to 300 who went off upon each of those trails but the main body continued together and took a direct course for Grand Glaize.

State of NEW-YORK.

ALBANY, August 18.

Schenectady, August 9.

We have undoubted authority to say, that the Senecas, and in general, all the Indians of the Six Nations, continue to evince a friendly disposition towards the United States. Judge Phelps, has lately held a treaty with the Senecas, on his private business; at which were present several of the principal chiefs and most influential characters of that nation. They expressed a very high regard for Mr. Phelps, and assured him of their firm intentions of continuing in amity and friendship with this country: and as a convincing proof of their sincerity, some of them have already sent their cows into the Genesee settlements, to the care of General Chapin, for lately—fearing a rupture between the English and us, or that their country would be invaded by the hostile Indians from the West.

It is a matter universally known, that the cession of lands made to the United States, by Complanter, at the Fort-Stanwix's treaty in 1788, has ever been considered as illegal and unjust by the Senecas, who have constantly protested against the white people's settling on any part of that cession—and their opposition at this critical period, appearing more determined than heretofore, (said by them, to be in consequence of the intended settlement at Pretquille, by the government of Pennsylvania,) has led to an opinion that the Senecas were unfriendly—but we trust at the proposed treaty in September every reasonable objection, on the part of the Indians to the fulfilment of the treaty of 1788, will be removed, and their friendship to this country firmly cemented.

BOSTON, August 23.

MR. JAY'S MISSION.

On Wednesday, at 8 o'clock, we detained the press, in order to announce the agreeable, and au-charged with a daughter (aged twelve) Hon. Superior Court, then found guilty, and sentenced gate, at hard labour, during his (unless he should break out there before) he may chance making as perfect as the other has made so conspicuous a figure

Norwich, Thursday

The Chesapeake Fleet has Letters from Brest, as late as firm the fact. When the fleet it contained about 150 sail. only 110: but it is supposed they were American vessels, as left the convoy. We have no captured.

Extract from a Letter to a person from his friend in London

Dear Sir,

The French at present by far fully successful; and the face of exhibits a spectacle which no but ever have devised, or heart following is a candid statement.

The French on the side of Italy they are conquerors—the face of Germany, (who more than there) yet they have to carry to have carried the feat of war in their enemies—Spain grumbles and still—The King of Sardinia is driven into Italy, (and I believe of his dominions) Penitence is defended on the papal troops—The king of Prussia has from being a principal, and is out of money, and has applied to Holland for a loan, and be on the list of the persons have revolted and kindled a war in the rope—The Grand Turk has certainly put armaments in motion but whether for or the Emperor, or to watch their motion—The Danes and Swedes have a pretence of supplying France with military stores; for they can certainly interest, nor love, for their principal sick of the war, and England is loaded with

ECITHUS.

ALBANY, August 4.

From a correspondent at Catskill.

A son of Mr. Daniel Hayton, of this place, a lad of about 7 years of age, a few weeks since, was attacked by six Owls, a small distance from his father's house, in the woods; and although the lad was smart and active for his age these voracious birds soon got the better of him, and had already torn his face very badly, when a negro girl came to his relief, and with no inconsiderable trouble beat off
the Owls and preserved his life.

State of MASSACHUSETTS.

PORTLAND, August 2.

MURDER and SUICIDE.

We are informed by the Eastern Post, that on Monday last, at the plantation of Littleborough, a Mrs. Gott, the wife of Mr. William Gott, (being insane) with an axe killed one of her children, and badly wounded another—after which she cut her own throat.

BOSTON, August 14.

ACCIDENTS.—A child, we are told, was poisoned
the last week, in Charlestown, by eating some molasses and arsnick, prepared to kill flies. At Whitettown, Mr. Oliver Root, an active, promising young man, lately died of a wound in the leg,
received from the incautions and wanton discharge
of the musquet of one of his companions in arms.
This may be the "Age of Reason," but it can make but little claim to that of Prudence.

in NORWICH.

A COURSE of LECTURES on the PRO-
PHECIES that Remain to be fulfilled.

By ELHANAN WINCHESTER.

THE Public are hereby respectfully informed,
these Lectures which have been patronized
by a respectable body of the CLERGY in London,
where they were at first delivered, and whose names are prefixed to the work; must be sufficient to establish their veracity, and stamp their value and importance.

They have been much sought for in this country
by those gentlemen who have had an opportunity of the perusal of them—and we presume only want to be read to meet with a rapid circulation and be universally applauded.

The Publishers earnestly request all Gentlemen
who have Subscription papers, to send them to J.
Trumbull in Norwich, as soon as may be.—Those who wish to be in possession of so valuable a work,
will please to leave their names with the following Gentlemen. Messrs. Collier and Buell Printers, Litchfield—Mr. Edward Gray, Printer Springfield—Mr. E.
Babcock, Printer Hartford—Mr. Samuel Green, Printer
New-London—Mr. John Byrns, Printer Windham—Messrs. Carter & Wilkinson, Printers Providence.— Where they may see the Proposals and view the contents at large.
